DERRIC VAN RENSBURG – OCTOBER 2020

Derric is a maestro who has perfected his craft over many years. His artistic adventure has taken him through various unique creative phases over the years which has helped galvanize his own nuance and take him to the magical 10,000 hours. This takes a good painter into the higher stratosphere, a different level of brilliance.

On his course of self development and creative awareness Derric searched for what originally inspired him to become a painter. He dreamed back to the pure and uncomplicated days of starting off as a young artist. His mind raced back to a magical time in the Overberg where he was commissioned to create a "Little White House" for a dear elderly couple of their quaint farm house. Derric came alive! The true passion of this project is what he now calls back on in his memories as a muse when searching for inspiration.

On a personal note Derric is a soft-spoken man, beloved father, grandfather and true friend. He is not a man of many words and prefers to keep in the background but does have a witty turn of phrase and wicked sense of humor. He lives under the shadow of the majestic Table Mountain in Cape Town's Southern Suburbs

Derric's new range "The Little White House" is inspired from these memories and Derric now lives by the creative mantra, that his best work is produced when looking for "The Little White House"
